

Westchester Golfers Win the Triangular Match Against New Jersey and Long Island Teams

Jesse Sweetser, With Card No. 76, Is Star of Tourney

Swanoy Youth Defeats Travers and White in Morning Matches; Wood Also Proves a Big Factor in the Success of the Westchester Linksmen

By Ray McCarthy

In spite of a fierce rain and an almost unplayable course, the first annual triangular golf match among New Jersey, Long Island and Westchester teams was a huge success—for Westchester, at least. The players of the county above the Bronx sloughed their way through muck and mire at the Morris County Country Club, to a brilliant victory over their two rivals. The final score of the meeting read Westchester, 30; New Jersey, 27; Long Island, 19.

While achieving this splendid victory Westchester incidentally was obtaining sweet revenge for the defeats New Jersey has administered in the past two seasons. This is the first year Long Island has competed in this annual meeting. Instead of playing separate matches it was decided to have the entire affair settled in one day.

Poor Day for Golf

Everything worked out beautifully, so that there is not the least doubt that henceforth this triangular meeting will be one of the biggest fixtures on the Metropolitan calendar. There seems to be a weather jinx of some kind on the trail of these team matches. It was decided to have the Westchester had to struggle over a course that was soggy and slow, but the conditions yesterday were worse.

It was in the afternoon when the conditions were worst of all—causal water everywhere, even in the air—that Westchester broke through to win what is now looked like a last match. At the end of the morning round, when all the singles matches had been completed, New Jersey was in the lead by 3 points, with a score of 21. Westchester had tallied 15 points and Long Island 12. Several of the combatants, unable to stand the pace, withdrew to nurse their injuries. One of these was the former national champion, Jerry Travers. Travers, who is a strong man, played yesterday morning with a lame back, the result of an attack of lumbago. It was not surprising, therefore, that both Sweetser and White decided to play in the afternoon.

Gardner White, who is still nursing an injured wrist, in order to give some other players from his district a chance, also withdrew in the afternoon. Thus New Jersey and Long Island in the afternoon were without the services of their stars. The Jersey outfit greatly missed their two leading performers, Oswald Kirby and William Brown. White, however, was in the Westchester golfers must be given full credit for their victory.

Sweetser Gets a 76

None did more toward his team's success than young Jesse Sweetser, who broke the course record Wednesday with a 76. He played as brilliantly yesterday as he did on the previous day. In defeating both Jerry Travers and Gardner White in the morning he went around the hole in 76 and 77. He teamed with C. H. Paul in the afternoon and they were out in the field in 154. Sweetser's partner, Paul, was one of the bright features of a very wet and dull or dullish day. Grandland Rice outscored several of the headliners in getting an 80 in the morning round. Let so keen was the opposition that the best he could get on both rounds was an even break.

Jake Schaefer, 18.2 billiard champion of the world, who successfully defended his title in his match with Welker Cochran at Chicago. Although he pressed at all times by Cochran, who started the final 500 points only 81 points behind the titleholder, Schaefer played a brilliant game in the final block and made a runaway race of it as the match neared the end.

Schaefer Retains Cue Title; Defeats Cochran, 1,500 to 1,333

CHICAGO, May 18 (By The Associated Press).—Young Jake Schaefer toyed with Welker Cochran in the final block of their world's championship 18.2 balk line billiard match to-night, and retained his title by defeating the young Pacific Coast star, 1,500 to 1,333. Schaefer won to-night's block, 500 to 414.

Leading Cochran 1,000 to 912, Schaefer began to-night's play with a run of 94, which, with last night's four, made 98 for the twenty-ninth inning of total play. Cochran missed three cushion shots in his first two innings. Jake got one in his second and fifteen in the next frame. Schaefer scored only three in his third frame and one in the next. Schaefer missed in his fourth inning. An overplayed massé gave the champion thirty-two in his next try, but he was penalized one point for the previous miscue.

An exhibition of nursing scored 99 for Cochran. He drove the balls only once. Schaefer then clicked off 115 by some clever work. His miss was on a difficult massé. The score then stood: Schaefer, 1,024; Cochran, 1,022. Cochran's sixth inning to-night gave him 24. Schaefer then scored 24, failing on a simple one-cushion shot. Welker was able to make only seven in his seventh frame. In his eighth frame, gave another exhibition of all-around play, adding 115 to his score and giving him a 320-point lead.

Cochran, after scoring 79, had all three balls together, but played a difficult cushion first shot and missed. Schaefer got eight, but could not get the balk. Cochran, however, missed another shot, resulting in an even 100. Jake missed after 49, when he tried a difficult cross-table drive for position. Cochran proved his nerve by running 160 points in the next inning, the high run of the evening. It made his total 1,308 and Schaefer's 1,449. After running twenty Schaefer missed a long draw. Cochran played too easy on a one-cushion six-ball after clicking off twenty-one.

Forced into three-cushion work, Schaefer could get only three in the fourth inning of total play. Cochran missed after the fourth point. Both men were leaving them hard. Schaefer had trouble in gathering the ivory, but spectacular work gave him twenty-one, when he missed an open shot with seven more needed. Cochran missed, and Schaefer ran seven, winning the match, 1,500 to 1,333, and to-night's block, 500 to 414. The score of the final block by innings follows: Schaefer—84, 115, 0, 81, 116, 24, 112, 8, 49, 2, 21, 3, 1, 93, 24, 7, 29, 0, 166, 21, 4, 0—414. Total, 1,333.

New York Boys Win Intercity Boxing Honors

Gordon Muncie Loses to Jim Murphy, of Penn. State, in Heavyweight Feature

By Jack Masters

Winning five out of eight classes contested New York easily carried off point honors in the intercity amateur tournament at Madison Square Garden last night. Penn State College, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia carried the other points evenly.

In the heavyweight class Gordon Muncie, the big Pastime A. C. heavyweight, clearly outpointed Jim Murphy of Penn State College in a three-round bout, but the judges could not agree on the winner and ordered an extra round. Murphy outpointed Muncie in this session and was awarded the decision amid rousing cheers from the crowd.

Muncie showed better form last night than was expected. He slipped through several straight lefts, checking Murphy's punches before they were half started. Muncie roughly hit him so much at times, but beat Murphy in the end of the first three rounds. In the second he opened the collegian's left eye and got in three very hard body punches and to the heart which caused him to hang on.

Local boys had things to themselves in the 112-pound class, and Louie Perle of the K. of C. defeated Nat Pincus, New York, a warm favorite at the start. In the final of the 128-pound class Joe Labati, another local product, surprised by knocking out John Dever, of Philadelphia.

SEMI FINALS

118-pound class—Molndri, E. of C., defeated Barney Kroll, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision. Form Bats .500 Average

In spite of the thunderstorms which broke intermittently from bat to bat, a .500 average. The favorite, Monastrey, topped the other at six furlongs after running to the outside fence with Cartrone on the stretch turn. This was a pick-me-up race for apprentice jockeys that had not won two races. The Juana Carter outscored the popular Chick Lang in the five-furlong third and brought the favorite, Lady Myra, home a half length in front of Ege.
